Senatorial Magnate Believes New Association Will Be a Go.

FAKE ORGANIZATION NOT POSSIBLE

Local Club to Be Entirely Reorganized for Coming Season.

GENERAL SPORTING NEWS

taken a turn and it is a hard matter to say just where Washington will be situated when all the tangles are straightened out. The story from Chicago published in The Star yesterday afternoon that the National League intends placing clubs in New York, Philadelphia, Baltimere, Washington, Chicago, St. Louis, Louisville and Cleveland and calling this organization the American Association is the latest development, doubtless brought about through the decided stand taken by President Ban Johnson of the American League as to the placing of clubs to represent his organiza-tion in Chicago and St. Louis.

And in addition thereto, here is J. Earl Wagner back in Washington, enthusiastic and ready to take up the local running, although it was understood that he would although it was understood that he would quit the national game forever should his local holdings be bought out by the National League.

In the eyes of many the new movement for an American Association has all the earmarks of a scheme to scare off the western president, but after all it may be the final solution of the complicated base ball problem. Mr. Wagner has always been an advocate of two major league organizations, and as this latest move is much on the lines desired by the local magnate, he doubtless promptly decided to once more get back into the game.

The Sort of Ball Proposed.

The Sort of Ball Proposed. Should the contemplated American Association materialize the local patrons would be given an opportunity of witnessing better ball than that contemplated through the locating of an Eastern League team in this city. Hundreds of ball players will be placed on the market through the reduction of the National League circuit, and these men will naturally drift into the new organization.

Considerable energy will have to be put forth by the people who will back the American Association, as the time between now and the opening of the season is very short, but the grounds are already available and all that will have to be done is to get the players.

What Mr. Wagner Says. "Base ball, like politics, makes strange bedfellows," said J. Earl Wagner this morning to an Evening Star reporter. "I wanted to get out of base ball in the worst way possible last fall, but here I am again back at the old stand and in harness again way possible last fail, but here I am again back at the old stand and in harness again for another season.

"This new move of the National League in organizing the American Association is an old hobby of mine, and I believe will be a go. The movement is not a retailatory one against Ban Johnson in particular, but is doubtless made to anticipate opposition of the future which is or was bound to come when cities like Washington. Baltimore, Cleveland and Louisville are left out of the game. The American Association will be wholly an independent one, with the exception that it will work under the national agreement. In places like Philadelphia, New York, Chicago and St. Louis, the only connection the National League will have with the association will be to rent the grounds. Companies will be organized in those cities entirely separate from the league, and they will have the advantage of not being put to the expense of erecting stands and laying out new grounds, but will simply rent those already in existence. In this way considerable, money will be saved which, will allow the pew organizations to begin work with a small expenditure.

"As to the local situation, I will locate in tions to begin work with a small expenditure.

"As to the local situation, I will locate in Washington this season entirely alone, and all blame or praise that will be thrown at the senatorial management can be given to me. The impression that I can retain any of the players in last year's Washington club is a mistake. I and the rest of the association managers will have to go into the open market and buy all new men. There will be something like 200 players thrown on the market, who are just a shade beneath the caliber of men wearing National League uniforms, the coming season. If I intend to have fourteen players on my pay roll the coming season they will cost me all the way from $250 up to $1,500, and you can easily see that the outlay will be pay roll the coming season they will cost me all the way from $250 up to $1,500, and you can easily see that the outlay will be considerable. This money all goes in the league fund to be used in paying off the notes given for the four clubs that have retired from the major organization. From this time on there will be a general scramble for players, and in the hustle I can assure you that I will do my best not to be left out in the cold.

"As a business proposition, do you not think that a club in the American Association running one, two, three in the race will not do better than the club wearing senatorial uniforms has done in the past eight years? I have been called almost everything by my enemies, but no one has yet consigned me to the fool class. I believe an American Association club in this city can be made successful, both financially and in playing strength, and to back up this opinion I am willing to risk my money and time."

Wagner to Move Here. When interrogated by The Star man as o the suspicious atmosphere that surrounds the association movement, Mr. Wagner said: "Little Willie has never been left yet in the base ball business, and you can trust to the little business shrewdness I trust to the little business, and you can trust to the little business shrewdness I pessess that J. Earl Wagner would not go into this movement if he didn't believe everything was straight and above board. We will have teams playing but a shade under the game put up by the National League clubs, and I am sure it will be successful and in time rival the major organization in playing strength."

Mr. Wagner will be permanently located in Washington for the remainder of the season. He will move his family to this city within the next few weeks, and personally direct the club affairs from his office at National Park.

Robert Young, son of "Uncle Nick," has heard nothing yet definitely as to the movement to place him at the head of the American Association, but it is the general opinion that a better selection cannot be made. Robert is thoroughly in touch with all the intricacies of the base ball world, is well known to every base ball proprietor in the land, and it is but just to say that he stands forth in their estimation as the most popular president that could be selected.

opular president that could be selected.

LITTLE TROUBLE FOR Y. M. C. A. Won Two Games From the Golden Eagle Bowlers,

The Y. M. C. A. and Golden Eagle bowling cams met for their last battle of the present season last night, and the association iads had little trouble in taking two of the games, with but a few pins shy of a threetime winning. The games were played at the Y. M. C. A., and as usual in games there a number of ladies were present. The result of the twelve games played between the two teams is decidedly in favor of the ciation, since their bowlers won out

Smith made a great record fast night and averaged 192 for the set. This will materially help his average and will bring him up closer to the good standing which he previously held. Miller's work was decidedly disappointing, and was not to be classed with his good games in the earlier contests in which he participated. Rose played a phenomenally steady game, one that was alike a credit to him and the association. Bunn slumped. But it is in him to produce much better scores. All of the members of the visiting team managed to get in one poor score, Laue leading his team for best single game, with 196 in the first event. But to Smith goes the credit for the big game. He went at the pins with the eye of a master in the second game and played without a break. For the first five frames he scored 128 pins, having a strike in each of the first four boxes; after this point has to be the season, the exhibition contest between the sixth, but from that point had to be Smith made a great record fast night and tily bowled and excited the appliause of the spectators.

Only in the opening game was the 800 notch reached, and here the home team passed it by two pins. The game was a comparatively close one throughout, and to their slightly superior strike work does the home team owe its victory. Doyle bowled a triple, the only one of the game, though the Eagles had several doubles. The score follows: preparations have been making for the contest, and the arrangements have for several days been perfected. The All Stars will arrive in the morning, and in the afternoon, at 2 o'clock, the first set of games will commence. Three games will be played, and in the evening, beginning at 8 o'clock, the second series of three games will start. The players on the Washington team will be as follows for the afternoon match: Spiess, Bruegger, Hanold, Laue and Burdine. This is the Saengerbund team of two years are Bruegger, Hanold, Laue and Burdine. This is the Saengerbund team of two years ago, and is without doubt the strongest team ever gotten together in this city. For the evening series the player of the above five who makes the lowest average in the afternoon games will retire, and Armstrong of the regular Golden Eagle team will take his place.

The All Star team is probably the greatest bowling organization in the country. They have been on tour since early in January, and in that time have played in almost every principal city east of Chicago. The members were selected from a half dozen different cities, and altogether they will prove a tough proposition for the Washington players. If the local team succeeds in winning one of the six games, they will about equal the expectations of their admirers. Connie Mack Hustling in Cleveland. Lecture by Bishop Talbot.

The second lecture of the Churchman's League, Lenten course, will be given according to program this evening, at Church of the Ascension, by the Rt. Rev. Ethelbert Talbot, D.D., LL.D., bishop of Central Pennsylvania, whose subject will be 'The Western Mission Field." The bishop The Western Mission Field. The bishop will speak of the church's opportunity in the new west, the character of the population, the resources of the country, the progress already made, and the needs of the work, in order to secure the best development.

Bishop Talbot's large experience in Wyoming and Idaho, and his well-known familiarity with all that goes to make up the west, peculiarly fit him for his task.

The second game was the closest of the match, and was won by the visitors through steady work. The home team gave a strange exhibition, the players varying widely in their respective scores, having a great range between their high and low games. With a little better support Smith's run could not have failed to be a winner. The score follows:

The last game saw the visiting team get a big lead and then fall away behind. At the fourth inning it seemed that the home team could not win, but here they spurted and working steadily they soon pulled ahead, being materially assisted by a poor run on the part of the Golden Eagles.
